Customer Reviews

I have completed this course as well as Ultimate French and Italian Advanced. Ultimate Spanish is by far the poorest of the three. Like all of these courses there is, in my opinion, a very major flaw. There is no transcript for the "Learn on the Go" tapes or CD's which comprise half of the audio material. The sentences spoken are often complex and are spoken at normal speed. No matter how many times I listened to some of them, I was unable to decipher them. I also found that for them to be of any value that I had to transcribe the "Learn on the Go" material myself--a very time consuming task. It took me at least a couple of hours per lesson--and I am a very advanced student of languages. I was sometimes unable to make out the words even with repeated listening. (Of the three courses I was able to transcribe completely the Italian--a language in which I have near native fluency--and even that with difficulty. French stumped me once or twice. But Spanish...) Another aggravating peculiarity of the course was the continual use of the future subjunctive--so beloved of examination writers of the 1950's but of little practical value. Also, dialectal forms such as "vos" received undue emphasis as did the second personal plural form "vosotros" which is absent in Latin American Spanish. There were also a number of editing errors. The most egregious one appeared in the "Apuntes" section of chapter 13 wherein it states that the Basques are "direct descendants of the Celts." That is, of course, completely false. The Basques and their language are as far as ever has been determined are totally unrelated to any others. I would also agree with other reviewers as to the limited value of the business information and the exercises.
